

ADX helps suppliers grow top-line revenue with services that help you keep your best customers happy

Sure ADX cuts costs, but more importantly we save your staff considerable time to do more productive things - like growing top-line revenue by spending quality time with your customers.

Thousands of suppliers grow top-line revenue using ADX services to help manage their customers. From order and invoice management to outsourced EDI and back-office system integration, ADX takes care of the details so you can spend more time taking care of your customers.

Your customers are our customers...

All of your customer's needs are different so they each ask you to do business differently. Rarely are two customers' business processes the same. They require unique documents, information and processes that can be daunting to manage. ADX specialists already understand how your customers do business - because as trading partners on our network, they are our customers as well. We can help you to simplify the tasks associated with electronically trading with each of your customers, helping you to earn and protect preferred supplier status.

Accurate, timely orders and invoices

Order Management from ADX provides suppliers with automated tools to receive, acknowledge, track changes and help assure accurate fulfillment of inbound sales orders (purchase orders "POs") from customers.

Invoice Presentment from ADX helps suppliers to accelerate receivables through automated tools that originate and present electronic invoices. Invoice accuracy is improved by "turning around" a PO, using its data to create, edit and submit invoices to customers assuring rapid approval and prompt payment.

Simple electronic data interchange

When your customers ask you to use EDI to do business electronically its imperative to do a good job. With ADX Outsourced EDI Services you outsource EDI just like many companies outsource payroll: it's an important job, but often difficult to manage yourself. Our Implementation and Support professionals are business process consultants who advise you on EDI best practices, give you ready and accurate answers to questions, and assist you through the challenges of change management whenever your customer needs to do business differently.

Back-office system integration

Handling paper-based orders and invoices become fast and efficient with integration services from ADX.

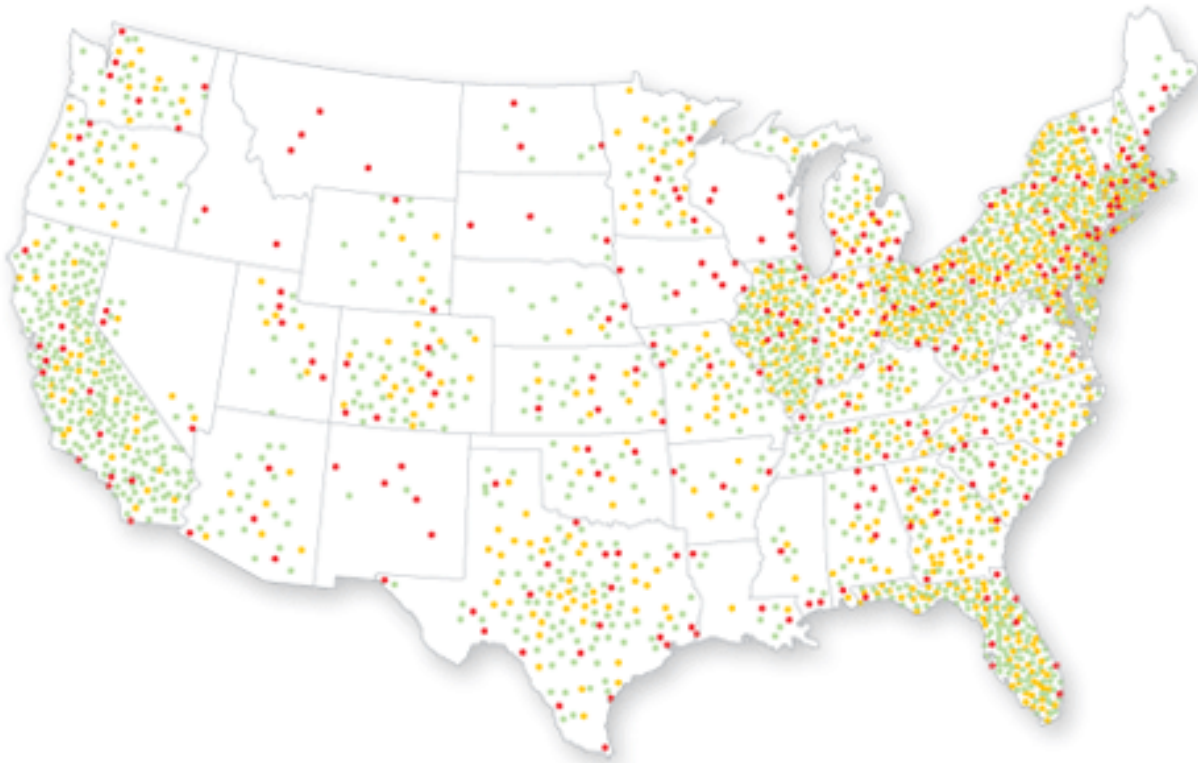

ADX Business Integration Services are delivered by a team of professionals to help you to integrate with your trading partners. We specialize in the design, configuration and implementation of a complete data transformation solution including part number cross referencing, data substitution and data normalization between your back-office system and the systems of your customers.

Instead of distributing printed faxes to order entry clerks, ADX integration lets suppliers directly transfer purchase orders to their back-office systems. Instead of printing, folding, and mailing paper invoices, ADX enables suppliers to generate electronic invoices that are sent directly to your customers' purchasing systems – helping you get paid faster.

By integrating electronic commerce data from customers and suppliers alike, ADX enables companies to realize greater returns from their accounting and ERP software investments.
